

Editorial

I am honored to welcome you to the 27th volume of “The Pharmstudent”, an official journal of Pharmaceutical Society, Department of Pharmaceutics, Indian Institute of Technology (Banaras Hindu University), Varanasi, India. The previous volume was published in the year 2015. This time we are also releasing the online version of the same. The present volume is being published after exhaustive efforts of the editorial team with a vision to provide high quality information on subjects related to pharmacy.

The current volume focuses on various scientific innovations in drug discovery and delivery. We tried to incorporate contents on natural products, medicinal chemistry, pharmacology, clinical practice, novel drug delivery systems, and nanotechnology. The articles from 19th volume onwards have been made available online and they will be available on Google scholar as well, which will make valuable contribution of authors more visible and facilitate quick retrieval of information. With the delivery of this volume of “The Pharmstudent”, we’re rolling out a new webpage where you’ll be able to see the additional features as well in future.

I would like to convey my sincere thanks to all the scientists and faculty members who have contributed for successful publication of this volume. I also express my thanks to all the editorial board members, reviewers, all office bearers, and members of the Pharmaceutical Society for their constant support and encouragement in bringing out this volume of “The Pharmstudent”. I hope that you will enjoy the articles and look forward for your valuable feedback to further improve “The Pharmstudent” in forthcoming volumes.

Prof. Sanjay Singh
Editor-in-Chief
The Pharmstudent